CLEVELAND LAWYER CENSURED

Edmund Lee Baugh, Jr., a Cleveland attorney, received a Public Censure from the Board of Professional Responsibility on May 3, 2006. Mr. Baugh engaged in the practice of law during a period after his license to practice law was administratively suspended on September 27, 2005, for failing to comply with continuing legal education requirements. Mr. Baugh's accepting representation of a client while on administrative suspension violated Rule of Professional Conduct 5.5(a).

A Public Censure is a form of public discipline that declares the conduct of the lawyer improper but does not limit the lawyer's right to practice.
