KNOXVILLE LAWYER SUSPENDED

On July 15, 2008, Thomas F. Mabry of Knoxville, Tennessee, was suspended by the Tennessee Supreme Court for eleven (11) months and twenty nine (29) days with credit for sixty (60) days between December 1, 2007, and January 21, 2008, that Mabry did not practice law and probation for the remainder of Mabry's suspension, conditioned upon Mabry's compliance with the following conditions:

- a) foregoing any and all efforts to collect unpaid legal fees from the Complainant;
- b) releasing the Complainant from all liability and voluntarily dismissing Mabry's attorney's lien;
- c) completing six (6) hours of Continuing Legal Education and Ethics and Professionalism, in addition to Mabry's existing Continuing Legal Education requirements; and
- d) refraining from engaging in conduct in further violation of the Rules of Professional Conduct.

Should Mabry fail to comply with any of the conditions of his probation, Mabry shall remain suspended indefinitely until Mabry submits to the Board an affidavit evidencing compliance with the conditions of his probation. The Board of Professional Responsibility filed disciplinary charges against Mabry for neglecting client matters, failing to adequately communicate with clients and, in one instance, improperly communicating with a represented party.
