CAMPBELL COUNTY LAWYER REINSTATED

On June 20, 2018, the Supreme Court of Tennessee reinstated Timothy Paul Webb to the practice of law effective immediately. Mr. Webb had been suspended by the Supreme Court of Tennessee for five years on September 26, 2016, with two years active suspension and the remainder on probation with conditions. Mr. Webb filed a Petition for Reinstatement to the practice of law pursuant to Tennessee Supreme Court Rule 9, Section 30.4.

A Hearing Panel found that Mr. Webb complied with the terms and conditions of his suspension, and further found that he had demonstrated the moral qualifications, competency and learning in the law required for the practice of law, and that his resumption of the practice of law will not be detrimental to the integrity or standing of the bar or administration of justice, or subversive to the public interest. Mr. Webb was required by the order suspending him to make restitution to several clients. He completed that restitution fully prior to filing the petition for reinstatement. Based upon the Hearing Panel's recommendation, the Supreme Court reinstated Mr. Webb's license to practice law. As conditions of his reinstatement, Mr. Webb must have a practice monitor for the remainder of his probation, continue his current Tennessee Lawyers Assistance Program monitoring agreement, and obtain legal malpractice insurance for the duration of his practice. Mr. Webb must pay the costs of the reinstatement proceeding.
