MEMPHIS ATTORNEY PLACED ON DISABILITY

On September 15, 2006, the Supreme Court of Tennessee issued an order transferring the law license of Thomas Davidson Williams, of Memphis, Tennessee, to disability inactive status. Rule 9, Section 21, Rules of the Supreme Court, provides that if a lawyer is so incapacitated that he cannot adequately defend himself against disciplinary charges, his law license may be transferred to disability inactive status. This case came before the Supreme Court based upon an order finding Mr. Williams is disabled and unable to defend himself. Williams' license shall remain on disability inactive status indefinitely until further order of the Supreme Court.
